

And they're up!

After a very windy week on Leonards Hill, the lifting team were able to lift the final section of the second turbine at noon on Sunday.

Right now the turbines are 'free-wheeling'. You may occasionally notice the blades moving as they are caught by the wind, but we are still a few months out from generating clean, safe electricity.

The electrical team will spend the next 8 - 10 weeks connecting up the turbines and installing the control equipment to energise the wind farm.
